

Craig M. Riggs, DVM

Diplomate, American College of Veterinary Surgeons

Craig Riggs, DVM is board-certified by the American College of Veterinarian Surgeons. His areas of special interest include general soft tissue, cardiovascular, oncologic and orthopedic surgery, including total hip replacement in the treatment of canine hip dysplasia and injuries to the hip. Other interests include minimally invasive surgical techniques such as laparoscopy and arthroscopy. His research interests and publications concern advanced orthopedic diagnostic techniques and knee injuries.

Dr. Riggs is a graduate of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Michigan State University. He practiced in Michigan and Ontario prior to returning to Michigan State University to complete a three-year small animal surgical residency. He joined the Surgical Service at Oakland Veterinary Referral Services in July of 1993. He successfully completed the specialty examination of the ACVS in February of 1994.

Dr. Riggs is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, the American Animal Hospital Association, and the Southeastern Michigan Veterinary Medical Association.

Medical Staff Member